Terms of Service for Orca

Last updated: February 23, 2026

1. Acceptance

By creating an Orca account, you agree to these terms. If you don’t agree, don’t use the app.

2. What Orca Does

Orca is a personal memory capture and retrieval app. You speak or type information, and Orca stores, organizes, and reminds you of it. Orca uses on-device AI to categorize your memories. This processing is not perfect and may make errors.

3. Your Content

- You own everything you put into Orca. We don’t claim any rights to your memories.
- You’re responsible for the content you store. Don’t use Orca to store illegal content.
- We may access anonymized, aggregated usage patterns to improve the service, but we will never access, read, or share your individual memories.

4. Account Responsibilities

- Keep your password secure. We’re not responsible for unauthorized access due to compromised passwords.
- One account per person.
- You must be at least 13 years old to use Orca.

5. Service Availability

Orca is provided "as is." We aim for high availability but don’t guarantee uninterrupted service. The app works offline for core features (capture, browse, local reminders). Cloud sync requires internet access.

6. Limitation of Liability

Orca is a memory aid, not a critical system. Don’t rely solely on Orca for time-sensitive obligations (medical appointments, legal deadlines). We are not liable for missed reminders or lost data, though we work hard to prevent both.

7. Early Access

Orca is currently in early access. Features may change, and the service may have bugs. By using Orca during early access, you understand this and agree to help us improve by providing feedback.

8. Termination

You can delete your account at any time from Settings. We may terminate accounts that violate these terms. Upon termination, your data is deleted from our servers within 30 days.

9. Changes

We may update these terms. Continued use after changes means you accept the updated terms.
